DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 1-5 and 18-21 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected group, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 6/27/05.
2. Applicant's election without traverse of claims 6-17 in the reply filed on 6/27/05 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 6-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cooper et al. (6,132,186) in view of Ward et al. (4,947,065).

Regarding claim 6, Cooper et al. shows a method of manufacturing a stator comprising groups of electromagnetic poles, each of the groups comprising magnetic material isolated and separated from each other, the method comprising forming the magnetic material of a soft magnetic composite by:

- Atomizing an iron alloy to form a plurality of particles (column 5, lines 19-21);
- Forming a mixture of the coated iron alloy particles and a lubricant (column 5, lines 58-59);

Art Unit: 2834

- Compacting the mixture at an elevated temperature and pressure to form a green compact (column 5, lines 59-61); and
- Heat-treating the green compact to form the soft magnetic composite (column 5, lines 61-63).

Cooper et al. does not show the step of coating each particle with a dielectric material.

Ward et al. shows the step of coating each particle with a dielectric material (column 1, lines 40-45) for the purpose of reducing eddy current.

Since Cooper et al. and Ward et al. are all from the same field of endeavor; the purpose disclosed by one inventor would have been recognized in the pertinent art of the others.

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to include the step of coating each particle with a dielectric material as taught by Ward et al. for the purpose discussed above.

Regarding claim 10, it is noted that Cooper et al. also shows the step of determining the target dimension for target properties in column 5, lines 20-30. As a result, claim 10 is also rejected.

Regarding claims 7, 9, 12, 15, and 17, it is noted that Cooper et al. also shows all of the limitations of the claimed invention in column 5, lines 5-15, in column 5, lines 25-30, Figure 16 for two groups of poles.

Regarding claims 8, 11, and 16, it is noted that Ward et al. also shows all of the limitations of the claimed invention in column 2, lines 45-47, in column 2, lines 10-20.

Regarding claims 13 and 14, it is noted that it has been held that to be entitled to weight in method claims, the recited structure limitations therein must affect the method in a manipulative sense, and not to amount to the mere claiming of a use of a particular structure. Ex parte Pfeiffer, 1962 C.D. 408 (1961). Put another way, "patentability of a method claim must rest on the method steps recited, not on the structure used, unless that structure affects the method steps." Leesona Corp. v. U.S., 185 USPQ 156, 165 (Ct. Cl. trial div. 1975) aff'd 192 USPQ 672 (Ct. Cl. 1976). As a result, claims 13 and 14 are also rejected.
